Antidumping and Countervailing duty cases continue to increase, and importers and customs brokers should be aware of the numerous issues associated with this challenging area. Companies can encounter significant financial hardship when its products fall within a scope order. Strategic planning and a thorough understanding of the process can help to protect and prevent a company from the often-astronomical dumping duties that can be assessed.

Join CONNECT as we present a series of three one-hour "Lunch and Learn" webinars covering the complexities of Anti-Dumping and Countervailing duties.
